

ANATOMY OF A HOME

Meyer Davis Gives a Manhattan Duplex a Light and Airy Facelift

The designers at Meyer Davis — who create hotels in addition to homes — have fashioned a most hospitable apartment on Manhattan's Upper East Side.

by Fred A. Bernstein | February 9, 2020

the bed. The wall covering is a Japanese washi paper from Phillip Jeffries. The mid-century Dutch sconces were bought from Mass Modern Design on 1stdibs, and the custom ceiling fixture is a drum wrapped in sheer ivory linen. “The light it gives off is soft and warm,” says McPherson. I

Bring It Home

Get the look with items hand-picked by Meyer Davis’s Katie McPherson and Josh Suckle

Adam Otlewski side table, new

Says Suckle, “Drinks tables are necessary in any great living room. The finish of this piece adds warmth to its almost brutalist form. We also appreciate the exposed-screw and tube base. It’s playful in an unexpected way.”